Auto Salesmen

"I think," said Jones, "I'll buy a car." He lightly spoke, nor dreamed of ill; he lighted then his punk cigar, and teetered up the village hill. But ere he'd gone a half a block three smiling salesmen ran him down; each handed out his line of talk, each sold the finest car in town. One pulled him east, one pulled him west, to show him autos rich and gay; one grabbed him firmly by the vest, and dragged him up an alleyway. Then five more agents came in haste; they'd heard he wished to buy a car; he broke away, the salesmen chased him o'er the village, near and far. He reached his home and locked the door; DISTRICT TO BE DIVIDED outside, the salesmen raised their din: six climbed the roof and three or four slid down the coalhole, to the bin. All day they talked, by fits and starts, all night away of chug-chug carts until he wished that he was dead. All beaten, then, by jolt and jar, he feebly waved a flag of truce, and bought from each a motor car, and begged them all to seek the WALT MASON.
